Teaching our kids from a young age how to love and care for their natural hair is incredibly important. Children need to know how beautiful their curls, kinks, and coils truly are. Whether your child is growing out or styling their natural hair, products formulated to keep their strands strong, healthy, and thriving are key.

Moisture is essential to prevent breakage, promote growth, and avoid painful knots and tangles. So stay away from sulfates, water-insoluble silicones, and alcohols that can dry out their hair, as well as waxes, mineral oil, and petrolatum that can coat the strands and prevent moisture from getting in. Some heavy butters should be used with caution, and only after the hair is properly moisturized.

Many parents prefer that their kids' hair products are gentle on the hair, fragrance-free, and sulfate-free, especially products for babies and for children who are prone to atopic dermatitis or eczema. Considering how many hair care products are out there, the key is finding the right ones that our kids' natural hair needs and thrives on.

This Guide lists some of the best products designed for kids (and favored by parents) to keep their curls healthy and strong. We have indicated which products are clean and green, as well as those better suited for low density (LD - thin) versus high density (HD - thick) hair. If you follow the Curly Girl Method, we have also indicated which products are CG approved or safe, and it is always useful to compare prices, so we have added the cost as well. Of course, prices regularly change, as well as the ingredients, so please verify before you purchase.

The products are divided into 5 Categories:

- Shampoos
- Conditioners
- Detanglers
- Leave-Ins
- Creams and Gels

We hope you find this beautiful Guide useful and worthwhile!

Note#1: Sodium C14-16 Olefin Sulfonate is excellent for clarifying but can be drying if used too frequently. Use with caution.

Note#2: To quickly and easily purchase these products, go to <https://curlplanet.com> and search for baby or kids in the Curly Hair Product Checker.
