Hard Water

Naturally curly hair is frequently prone to dryness and breakage, so using a good leave-in conditioner on wash day is beneficial and encouraged.

What is so special about a leave-in conditioner?

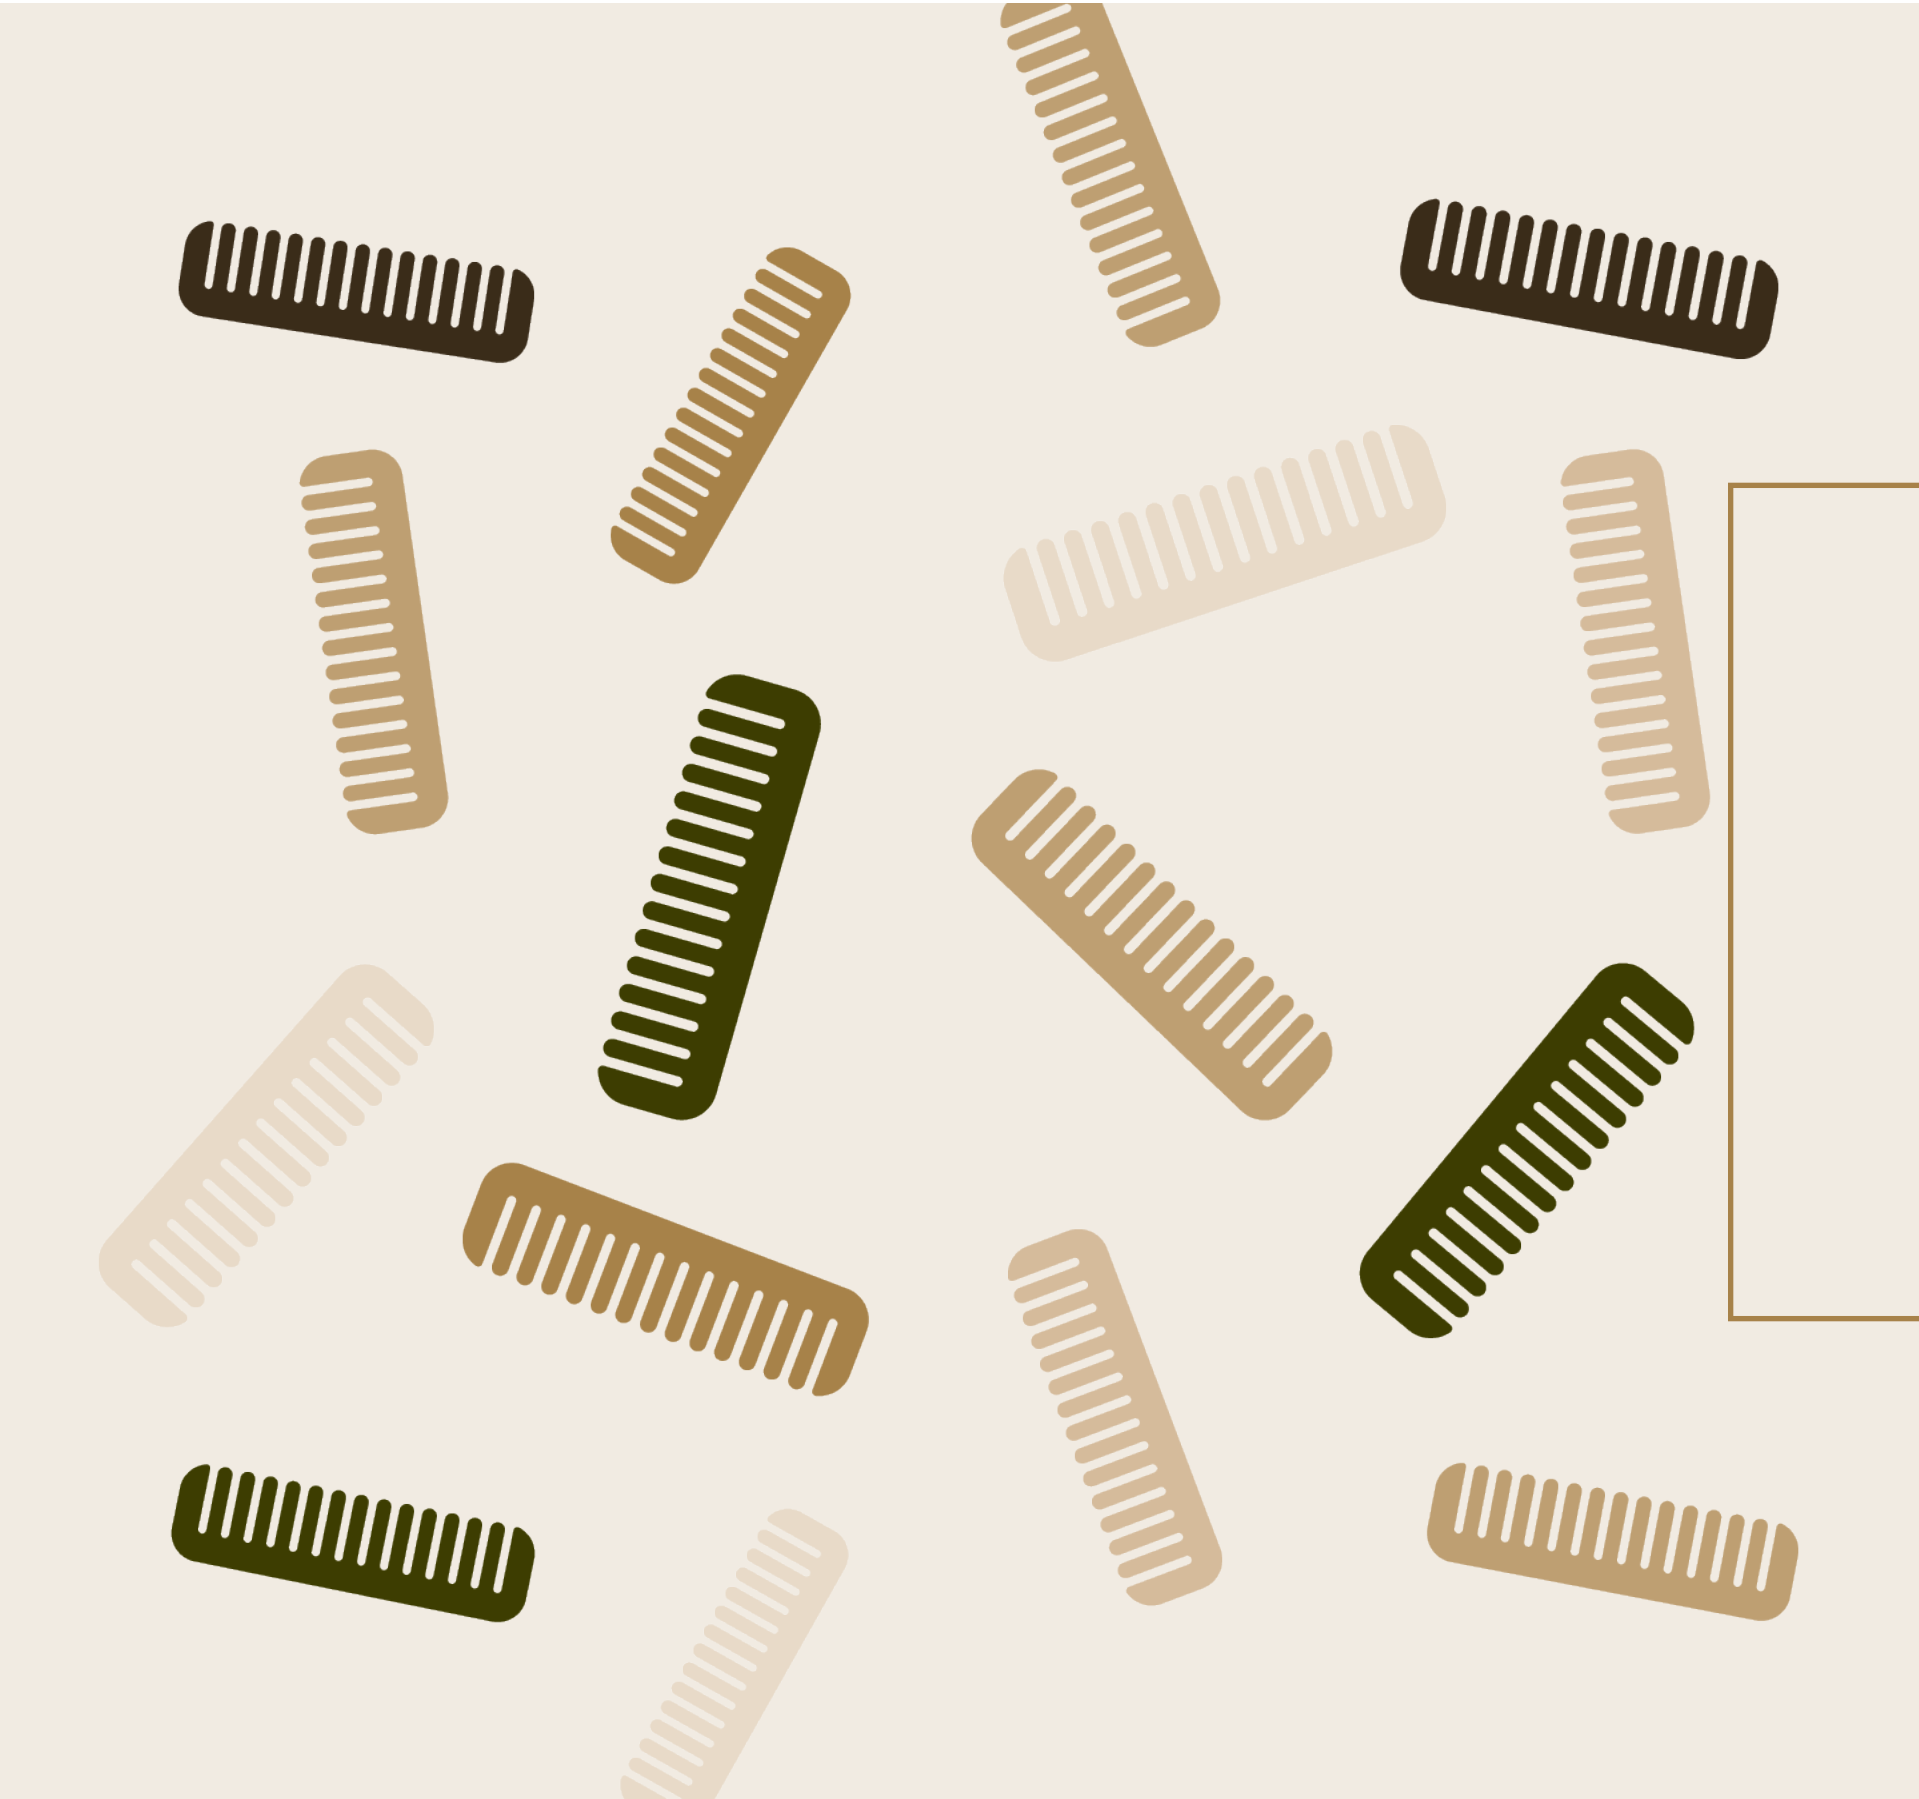

These cleverly formulated conditioners contain desirable moisturizing and conditioning agents designed to restore your hair's pH, moisture levels, reduce hair breakage, and improve hair elasticity. The best leave-in conditioners improve the overall look, feel, and texture of the hair until the next wash day.

If you have very thin hair, however, use only a tiny bit of a leave-in conditioner to avoid weighing down the curls, and use one formulated for low density hair.

This Ultimate Guide contains over 100 leave-in conditioners currently on the market for natural hair. For each product, we have indicated if it contains protein, aloe, or coconut. We have also indicated whether it is better for low density (thin) or high density (thick) hair.

All the leave-in conditioners in this guide are CG safe for natural hair. Manufacturers often change ingredients in formulas so be sure to double-check the ingredient list before buying.
